

Renée Menkhaus

Renée Menkhaus is a teacher and freelance musician in the Indianapolis area. She maintains a full horn studio during the school year consisting of students from the Avon, Brownsburg, Fishers, Lawrence, and Perry Meridian school districts. Her students can be found sitting at the top of their sections, and in honor bands and orchestras around the state. Ms. Menkhaus has a bachelor's degree in music from The Ohio State University and a master of music degree from Indiana University. She has been playing the horn since 1992 and performing professionally since 2003. Currently she is the fourth horn of the Newark Granville Symphony in Ohio, and the second horn of Owensboro Symphony in Kentucky. Active as a solo musician Ms. Menkhaus won third prize at the Susan Slaughter International Solo competition in the professional horn division in 2010. Teaching the horn and sharing ideas with other teachers is a priority for her. She has been published in The Horn Call, the journal for the International Horn Society. If you are interested in lessons please contact Ms. Menkhaus at Rmenkhaus@gmail.com or (317) 941-3540.